A library in Osceola County is raising money through a book sale.

The Reed City Public Library is having its quarterly book sale this week.

The book sale puts hardcover books at 50 cents, and paperback at a quarter.

And Saturday, people can fill an entire bag of books for five dollars.

The proceeds are an important part of the library's budget.

And, they have a large amount of books to choose from.

Heather Bassett, Reed City Public Library Director, said, "We have quite a few this time. We actually have more in storage if we need to move them out, and I would estimate maybe between 1,500 and 2,000."

They get a large amount of the books for the sale from people's donations.
